A: You can use some tricks like blizzards and user friendly strings to make your GM commands understandable. The fact that the user id is displayed on the battle screen is a piece of luck, so you shouldn't rely on that. Create a user id string for your character with all the information you might need (equipped, items, amulets, skills,...) in a very human readable way (you can use this website for that). The most important part is that the GM command must be at the end of the string. Example: Unicode
